

Do Everything Wrong: XXXTentacion's Against the World

XXXTentacion's Against the World is a dark and introspective album that explores themes of depression, suicide, and violence. The album's title track is a harrowing account of X's struggles with mental illness, and the rest of the album follows suit, with songs that are equally bleak and honest. Despite its heavy subject matter, Against the World is also a testament to X's talent as a rapper and songwriter. The album's production is sparse and atmospheric, and X's vocals are raw and emotional. The result is a powerful and moving album that is sure to stay with listeners long after they've finished listening to it.

Depression and Suicide

Depression is a major theme throughout Against the World. X himself struggled with depression, and his lyrics often reflect his own experiences with the condition. On the song "SAD!", X raps about how he feels like he's "going through hell" and that he's "tired of feeling like this." He also talks about how he's contemplated suicide, rapping, "I'm thinking about killing myself / I'm thinking about killing myself / I'm thinking about killing myself." X's lyrics about depression are honest and raw, and they offer a glimpse into the mind of someone who is struggling with this condition.

Violence

Violence is another major theme on Against the World. X was no stranger to violence, and his lyrics often reflect his own experiences with it. On the song "Look at Me!", X raps about how he's "not afraid to die" and that he's "ready to fight." He also talks about how he's been in fights and how he's seen people get killed. X's lyrics about violence are often graphic and disturbing, but they also offer a glimpse into the mind of someone who has been through a lot.

Mental Illness

Mental illness is a third major theme on Against the World. X himself struggled with mental illness, and his lyrics often reflect his own experiences with it. On the song "Jocelyn Flores," X raps about how he lost a friend to suicide. He also talks about how he's been diagnosed with bipolar disorder and how he's been taking medication for it. X's lyrics about mental illness are honest and raw, and they offer a glimpse into the mind of someone who is struggling with this condition.
