A Bird Like No Other

Gracie is a common grackle, a species of blackbird found throughout North America. However, there is nothing common about Gracie. Unlike most grackles, who are known for their iridescent black plumage, Gracie has a striking white head and neck. She is also missing a portion of her beak, which gives her a distinctive appearance.

A Journey of Resilience

Gracie's story begins in 2016, when she was found injured and near death on the side of a road. She was taken to a wildlife rehabilitation center, where she received life-saving medical care. Despite the severity of her injuries, Gracie showed an indomitable spirit, and she slowly began to recover.

The road to recovery was long and challenging. Gracie had to learn to eat and vocalize with her missing beak, and she had to adjust to her new appearance. However, with the help of her dedicated caregivers, Gracie overcame these obstacles and emerged as a thriving bird.
