Getting Started

To get started with HTML, you will need a text editor. A text editor is a simple program that allows you to create and edit text files. There are many different text editors available, so you can choose one that is best for you.

Once you have a text editor, you can start creating your first HTML file. To create a new HTML file, simply open your text editor and type the following code:

```
<html> <head> <title>My First HTML Page</title> </head> <body>

</body> </html>
```

This code will create a simple HTML page with the title "My First HTML Page" and the content "Hello, world!".

The Basics of HTML

HTML is made up of a series of elements. Elements are the building blocks of HTML, and they are used to create the structure and content of a web page.

The most basic element is the  element. The  element is used to create paragraphs of text.

To create a paragraph of text, simply type the following code:

```
This is a paragraph of text.
```

You can also use the <h1>, <h2>, <h3>, <h4>, <h5>, and <h6> elements to create headings. Headings are used to organize the content of a web page and to make it easier to read.

To create a heading, simply type the following code:

```
<h1>This is a heading</h1>
```

Adding Images and Links

You can use the <img> element to add images to your web pages. To add an image, simply type the following code:

```
<img src="image.jpg" alt="Image of a cat">
```

The src attribute specifies the URL of the image, and the alt attribute specifies the alternative text for the image. The alternative text is used by screen readers to describe the image to users who are unable to see it.

You can use the  element to add links to your web pages. To add a link, simply type the following code:

```
This is a link
```

The href attribute specifies the URL of the link, and the text between the  and tags is the text that will be displayed on the web page.

Styling Your Web Pages

You can use CSS (Cascading Style Sheets) to style your web pages. CSS is a language that allows you to control the appearance of your web pages. You can use CSS to change the font, size, color, and layout of the elements on your web pages.

To add CSS to your web pages, simply create a new CSS file and link it to your HTML file. To link a CSS file to your HTML file, simply type the following code in the <head> section of your HTML file:

```
<link rel="stylesheet" href="style.css">
```
