However, their happiness is short-lived. Boris is killed in a battle with the Tuareg, and Domini is left alone to mourn his death. Heartbroken, she returns to England and tries to build a new life for herself. But she can never forget her time in the desert or the love she shared with Boris.

Bella Donna

The second novel in the trilogy, Bella Donna, was published in 1909. The novel tells the story of Bella Donna, Domini's daughter. Bella Donna is a beautiful and spirited young woman who falls in love with an older man, Nigel Armine. Nigel is a charming and wealthy Englishman, but he is also a ruthless and ambitious man. Bella Donna is unaware of Nigel's true nature, and she marries him in the belief that he loves her.

However, Bella Donna soon discovers that she has made a terrible mistake. Nigel is not the man she thought he was, and he treats her with cruelty and contempt. Bella Donna tries to leave him, but Nigel refuses to let her go. He is determined to keep her as his possession, even if it means killing her.
