Choosing the Right Placement

The first step in preparing for your practicum is to choose the right placement. There are a number of factors to consider when making this decision, including your interests, your career goals, and your learning style.

If you are unsure about what type of placement is right for you, talk to your field instructor or academic advisor. They can help you identify placements that will meet your needs and help you achieve your goals.

Preparing for Your Practicum

Once you have chosen your placement, it is important to start preparing for your practicum. This includes completing any required paperwork, attending orientation, and meeting with your field instructor.

It is also important to take some time to reflect on your own strengths and weaknesses. This will help you identify areas where you need to focus your development during your practicum.

Making the Most of Your Practicum

Your practicum is a valuable opportunity to learn and grow as a social worker. To make the most of your experience, it is important to be:

1. 積極主動: Take initiative and get involved in all aspects of your placement.
2. 自我反思: Regularly reflect on your experiences and identify areas where you can improve.
3. 尋求回饋: Ask your field instructor and other staff members for feedback on your work.
4. 與他人建立聯繫: Get to know other social workers and professionals in your field.

The social work practicum is a challenging but rewarding experience. By preparing yourself and making the most of your time in the field, you can set yourself up for success as a social worker.
